Dead Finish Museum

Built by Alfred Smith in 1872, the Museum is the oldest building in Beverley. The collection and displays of artefacts depict life in Beverley since its settlement in 1831. Open on Sundays from mid-March to October or contact bhsdeadfinish@gmail.com.

Ferguson Vintage Collection

Located on Hunt Road is the privately owned display of vintage machinery and appliances from days gone by. The collection also has an impressive vehicle registration plate display and is open most weekends or by appointment, phone (08) 96461031.

Aeronautical Exhibition

The Beverley Visitor Centre located in the Cornerstone building on Vincent Street has a wonderful interactive display complete with a 1:5 scale model of the Silver Centenary plane built in Beverley. A vampire jet can also be seen on Hunt Road which has a "Flying through history" display on the Aviation history in Beverley and the region.

Town Heritage Walk

Get a copy of the walk in the Beverley visitor booklet from the visitor centre or go onto the beverleywa.com website and download your directions. The walk will take around an hour.
